Mr. MONTOONERY courts liquity into his record as a Congressman and into the history of his part during the past four years. He courts a public discussion of the people's concerns, and as will be people's concerns, and as will he seen by an announcement in another column, he invites the leaders of opposing parties to meet him addieuss these matters. No suprant for political or public honor who prolitical or public honor who deeper proper deeper or respect will do less.

Jonx W. Lewis, the self-styled "champlon," was asked most cour-tounly by Mr. Russell, the Popullat nominee, for a division of time at his appointments in this district. Although Mr. Russell is but a very plain farmer and Mr. Lewis' crowd say, entirely unlearned as to political offsits, this covardly swaggeer refused to meet him, and that, too, when he could easign on "personal" reason for doing so. The real truth is, Lewis' own exakers and that of his oflous cause is sufficiently well known to his managers to leed them to keep him at a safe distance from any man who represents an opposing
